The Morthern Railroads Converted into Engines of War.

Two Featful Calamit'es Yesterday.

Boston, August 26 .- A frightful ac cident occurred to-night on the Eastern railroad, at Revere, seven miles from Beston. The accommodation train started behind time, and while st pping at the station at Revere, the die division of the Philadelphia and Portland lightning express overtook Erie railroad, causing the death of it and telescoped it, killing twentyone passengers outright, three of whom were women, and wounding some

BOSTON, August 27.—The appailing railroad accident at Revere last night caused intense excitement. To-day large crowds visited the scene of the disaster. The railroad officials have cisared away the debris and ruins, and the road is in running order again At the time of the collision, the ac-commodation train for Beverly had its red signal-lights behind, and a red signal holsted at the mast-head. The express was telegraphed to hold up, which it did at Everett, but subscquently proceeded, and was under ill headway when near Revere station, the engineer evidently not being aware of his proximity to the Beverly train, until, perhaps, within sixly rods. He then whistled down brakes, but not soon enough to avert the catamily. Some of the passengers in the rear part of the accommodation train heard the ominous whistle, but it was too late for them to escape. On came the express train at great velocity, and the engine struck ne rearmost car full in the center and forced its way in a telescople manner two-thirds the length of the car; the smokestack was instantly knocked off and the boiler penetrated all the dis-tance named into the rear car, the rear part of the latter being senashed to a thousand splinters and throwing the debris out on either side of the tender of the rear half of the car; not a fragment as big as a house window could be found. The fore part of the engine was utterly demotished, its pistons, wents and its rods broken; the car was crowded with people, every seat being occupied and many were standing in the sisle. In among these the locomotive rushed as quick as a flash, just as the Beyerly train had started, mangling and killing in a most frightful manner. But this was not the only and, perhaps, not the worst, visitor the unfortunate passengers had. Simultaneously with the collision am and deluged with bon seriously injured. The lamps spilled their contents and the fire here, i any, was undoubtedly extinguished by water and steam. Although the Beveriy train was just moving when collicion took place its motion did not prevent injury to the cars in The coupling between th two rear cars broke and the platforms of all of them were mmed up together with the smoking car overtipping. The baggage car and the rods and timber were mextricamixed and Interwoven. Fortunately the entanglement was not so great but the passengers succeeded in getting out quite speedily. Happy was it for them that they did so, for the kerosens oil lamps upset and their contents spilled upon the upholstery and in a few minutes the smoking car was in a blaze. The flames traveled with great speed from one car to another until three of them were embraced in its fiery tolds. These were subsequently moved up the track half | bu a dozen rods and allowed to burn str until there was nothing left. An effort was at first made to put out the fire, but this was prevented, and the flames were useful in lighting up the dreadful scene in the rear and to fa cilitate the services for the wounded. The work of receiving the wounded was at once com menced, assistance being soon fur-nished from Chelses, Charlestown and at a later hour from Boston, including surgeons and physicians. The Presi dent, whose company had just re-turned from an excursion to Providence, was promptly at the ground, having seen the fire burning. A dozen poor creatures were jammed with out.
